

TRAVEL | BY EMMA TUCKER

The UK's best woodland and coastal retreats to hole up in this summer

Architecture that's well worth a 'staycation'

Seren Mor in Pembrokeshire, Wales

Photography: Unique Home Stays

Enjoy a modern take on rustic living at this seaside house, which scooped the award for 'best building in Wales' back in 2013. Bedrooms are located at the bottom of the house, with the living room at the top, where views of the hillside can be best enjoyed. On sunny days, doors slide open onto a timber balcony. If it does get rainy, guests can shelter behind the floor-to-ceiling windows, enjoying views over the Newport estuary as well as Skomer Island and its population of puffins and seals.

From £2650 per week via Unique Home Stays