'Twinkling lights and candles are a fantastic place to start. 'Elegant candelabras, dining candles, battery-powered candles, tea lights, light curtains, string lights, and hanging LED candle rings are all a chic choice,' says Joanna Spindler, of Graham and Green. 'They are reminiscent of the old tradition of placing lanterns in windows as a sign of good news or as a beacon to welcome in weary travelers.'

There are plenty of ways to dress your windows for Christmas, from hanging stars and baubles on branches for a minimalist scene to going all-out with lights, wreaths, Christmas villages, and garlands.

Star decorations are a chic festive addition if you don't want to steam full tinsel ahead. You can choose anything from paper versions to LED-lit metal options for a holiday glow.

Simply hang from your window frame or, for something a little different, why not affix a branch to the wall or ceiling near the window and hang stars, or any decoration that pleases you, from there. This will create a pared-back Scandi-style scene, as displayed in the chic room at Unique Homestays above.
