

DESTINATION design

Stuck for decorating inspo? Irish hotels offer more than just good service. From modern Deco to Regencycore drama, here are the chic staycations channelling this year's top trends

WORDS RÓISÍN CARABINE

NEW MINIMALISM

Minimalism needn't be cold or sterile. In fact, the newest take on the trend is anything but. Whilst it retains its modern industrial edge, its sharp clean lines and neutral palette have been softened by natural materials - stone, wood, marble - and beautifully textured surfaces. It may not be as visually stimulating but it is comforting. Get the look: If new minimalism is your thing, the spa at the Cashel Palace Hotel, Tipperary (pictured: Cashelpalacehotel.ie) is a beautiful example of how you can make the most of a restricted colour palette with chic, natural stone, clever lighting and sophisticated pale wood accents.

BOHO SCANDI

Relaxed and uncluttered, but cosy, Boho Scandi design takes the best from both aesthetics – plainness and a love of nature – and mixes them together for a playfully undone look. Think airy rooms, artfully curated with patinated furniture, vintage finds, hand-hewn pieces and other sustainably sourced gems – all beautifully illuminated by organic-shaped statement lights. Get the look: Although this is a design that comes together after years of collecting, painted white walls, exposed beams, parquet flooring, mid-century furniture and touchable textiles can immediately move your home in the right direction.

Experience hygge and a relaxed, boho vibe at (top) Limehouse Cottage, Kerry, Uniquehomestays.com; (middle) Breac House, a modern hideaway in Donegal, Breac.house; (bottom) Walden Lakehouse, Westmeath, Uniquehomestays.com, 0044 1637 881183

Brink & Campman
Pebble Beach rug,
€1,219, Rugs.ie

Wicker side table,
€229.99, Homesense

Cuun lounge chair,
€419, Woodesign.ie