FULL-ON PRINTS AND FULL-ON CHRISTMAS MOOD AT CASTLE INDIA

Perhaps it's not a hotel room you need, but a stay that will sleep all your nearest and dearest in Christmas style. Enter this opulent spot in the Tamar Valley, owned by House of Hackney co-founder Frieda Gormley and her family. All eight bedrooms, the dining spaces, kitchen and fireplace-studded lounge are carpeted top to toe in the brand's signature maximalist prints – and festive decorations follow suit with a more-is-more aesthetic. Expect botanical-inspired garlands on the mantelpiece and banister, giraffe and mushroom-shaped velvet baubles and leopard-print bows.

Out and About: Blustery walks await through the surrounding Tamar Valley AONB or nearby Dartmoor National Park. If you feel like going blisteringly festive, Plymouth has a sizeable Christmas market with 50 vendor cabins, a Santa's Grotto and musical performances.
